Our Technology

At Acevedo Belt, P.A., we use leading legal technology software, including document automation, document management, client portals, and transaction management software as part of our continuing efforts to provide our clients an exceptional experience.

The Conventional Law Firm Model

Our experience working as business lawyers in large law firms made it clear to us that traditional law firm practices and profits generally are dependent on a labor-intensive model in which billable hours are paramount. As a result, some combination of senior partners, young partners, senior associates, junior associates, paralegals, and legal assistants may become involved with a client's particular matter.

This labor-intensive model works well for the large law firm, since large firms generally bill on an hourly basis. But, for the client, the result can be much different, including unknown and higher legal costs, a financial disincentive for lawyers to be efficient, slow turnaround, and lack of clarity to the client on the status of their matter.

How Our Technology Makes Us Different

At Acevedo Belt, P.A., our model embraces the use of technology to assist us in realizing four goals: (a) do more with less; (b) do it better; (c) do it faster; and (d) do it with greater transparency and client collaboration. Modern technology also allows us to embrace alternative fee arrangements, including fixed fees, as appropriate.

We utilize advanced legal technology from industry-leading and trusted vendors, including:
