About Us

A Boutique Transactional Firm

Who We Are and What We Do

We are a boutique transactional law firm, primarily practicing in the corporate, hospitality, real estate, international and family office areas. The firm began in 2017 when Brian Belt founded the firm after working in large international, national and statewide law firms for more than 30 years. Maria Acevedo, a Harvard-educated and Wall Street law firm-trained attorney, joined the firm in 2018. We provide our services to a wide variety of clients located in Florida, across the United States and internationally. Our clients range from individual investors to small and medium-sized entrepreneurial companies to institutional or quasi-institutional clients. Acevedo Belt, P.A. is a majority-woman and minority-owned law firm.

Our Philosophy

We seek each day to provide our clients with responsive, effective and efficient legal services by leveraging our decades of large firm experience and training, together with leading legal technology, in a small firm environment. We work for our clients and not a large firm. When our clients engage us, they work directly with Maria, Brian or another highly experienced and trusted attorney on our team, as we generally do not use junior associates. We share these efficiencies with our clients in an effort to provide maximum value.

Our Technology

We use leading legal technology software, including document automation, document management, client portals, and transaction management software. We use our technology in a constant effort to timely produce high quality legal work at a reasonable cost, efficiently manage significant transactions and effectively communicate and collaborate with our clients and other parties. Learn More.
